Volunteer Site: J Keough Counselling Services

Contact Person: Jennifer Keough

Email Address: jkeoughcounselling@gmail.com

Website: <https://www.psychologytoday.com/profile/390219>

City: Grand Falls-Windsor

Province: Newfoundland and Labrador

Additional Information: At this time, I would be open to offering limited volunteer opportunities within my practice; however, it is important to be clear about the structure and expectations of these roles.

Volunteer opportunities would be focused on providing exposure to the administrative and operational aspects of a counselling practice, rather than any form of clinical work. This may include learning about scheduling systems, documentation standards, intake and onboarding processes, practice policies, and the overall day-to-day operations of running a private practice. Volunteers may also be introduced to broader professional topics such as ethics, boundaries, and case conceptualization in a general, non-client-specific way.

Given the nature of my practice and the importance of maintaining strong ethical and professional standards, any volunteer role would require clear boundaries, a defined scope, and a level of readiness and professionalism from the individual. These opportunities would be limited in availability and would require an application and screening process to ensure fit.

It is also important to note that while I have extensive experience supervising practicum students, this volunteer experience would be distinctly different and would not be a substitute for practicum or clinical training.

Volunteer Site: Heal Through Connection Psychotherapy

Contact Person: Tabitha Milne

Email Address: htcpracticum@gmail.com

Website: www.healththroughconnection.com

City: Toronto

Province: Ontario

Additional Information: At Heal Through Connection, volunteer opportunities are designed to provide exposure to the non-clinical aspects of private practice, particularly in areas related to outreach, content development, and practice growth.

Volunteers may have the opportunity to support with:

- Writing psychoeducational blog content related to mental health and personal growth
- Assisting with content development through research and idea generation
- Conducting light research on marketing and SEO to support online visibility
- Supporting outreach efforts to community organizations (e.g., wellness spaces, community centres, organizations and associations) to help build referral pathways and increase awareness of affordable therapy services

These roles are primarily project-based and best suited for individuals who are proactive, self-directed, and comfortable working independently with guidance. This experience is particularly valuable for students who are interested in building a private practice in the future, as it offers insight into how therapists develop and sustain a client base.

While prior experience in related fields (e.g., wellness, social services, communications, marketing, branding, writing) is considered an asset, it is not required. We value strong communication skills, initiative, and a genuine interest in personal and professional growth.

Province: Saskatchewan

Additional Information: Stick & Stone Counselling Services is an established, community-focused counselling practice based in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. We are committed to providing a supportive, ethical, and growth-oriented environment for individuals interested in pursuing careers in counselling and mental health.

We are open to offering structured volunteer opportunities that provide exposure to a professional counselling setting while maintaining clear boundaries in alignment with Yorkville University's guidelines. Volunteer roles at our site would be non-clinical in nature and may include supporting client experience (e.g., reception and welcoming), assisting with workshop and community initiatives, contributing to resource development, and supporting administrative and operational processes.

We are particularly interested in creating meaningful, well-supported volunteer experiences that allow individuals to gain insight into the day-to-day functioning of a counselling practice, interdisciplinary teamwork, and client-centered service delivery, without engaging in direct or indirect clinical work.

All volunteer roles will include clear role descriptions, orientation, and supervision to ensure ethical practice, appropriate boundaries, and a positive learning environment. Volunteers must adhere to confidentiality expectations and organizational policies.

As a growing practice, we value building strong relationships with emerging professionals and see volunteer opportunities as part of a potential longer-term pathway into practicum placements and future professional development within our organization.

Website: www.talktherapycanada.com
City: Not Applicable
Province: Not Applicable

Additional Information: About Volunteer Opportunities at Talk Therapy Canada

Talk Therapy Canada is a fully virtual, high-volume psychotherapy clinic serving clients across Ontario and Canada. Our team supports thousands of client appointments annually and works with a diverse population including children, teens, individuals, couples, and families.

We offer a rich and structured learning environment with exposure to a wide range of clinical specialties, including trauma-informed care and EMDR, anxiety and depression, OCD, couples therapy (Gottman-informed), sex therapy, men's mental health, grief, and work with military and first responder populations.

As both a clinical and systems-based training site, we are committed to developing well-rounded future therapists who understand not only the therapeutic process, but also the operational and ethical foundations of a high-functioning clinic.

Client confidentiality is a core priority.

Volunteers do not observe live client sessions. However, they may participate in team-based learning environments, including:

- Clinical training sessions
- Peer consultation and supervision spaces
- De-identified case discussions
- Internal educational opportunities

Volunteers are welcomed as active contributors to the team. Depending on their experience and interests, opportunities may include:

- Supporting administrative and operational workflows within a busy virtual clinic
- Assisting with client experience, engagement, and retention initiatives
- Contributing to social media, blog writing, and psychoeducational content
- Supporting internal resource development for both clients and clinicians
- Participating in systems, process, and growth-related projects

This placement is best suited for individuals who are motivated, proactive, and interested in gaining meaningful, real-world experience in both the clinical and operational aspects of psychotherapy practice.

We take pride in fostering a professional, growth-oriented environment and are intentional about supporting individuals who demonstrate strong alignment, initiative, and readiness for the field.

Province: Not Applicable

Additional Information: Are you an aspiring mental health professional looking to gain the foundational experience required for graduate-level studies? Fernweh Wellness is pleased to offer volunteer positions designed to immerse prospective MACP applicants in the operational and professional heart of a thriving private counselling practice. We believe that understanding the "how" of a clinic is just as vital as the "why" of therapy. This role offers a unique vantage point to observe the intersection of client care, ethics, and practice management.

At Fernweh Wellness, we recognize that we cannot guide others toward wholeness if we are operating from a place of depletion. Our commitment to our clients is mirrored by our commitment to ourselves and our team. We believe that "wellness" is a verb, a continuous practice of alignment, boundaries, and self-compassion. We don't pretend to have "arrived" at a state of perfect wellness. We are human beings navigating the same complexities of life as our clients. By showing up authentically and doing our own internal work, we create a safe, non-judgmental space for clients to do theirs.

As a volunteer with Fernweh Wellness, we invite you to step into this same commitment. We seek individuals who are ready to prioritize their own well-being and self-awareness as the foundation of their professional journey. By joining us, you aren't just observing a business, you are participating in a culture of care that requires you to honour your own boundaries, stay curious about your growth, and show up with the same radical authenticity we offer our clients.
